New Interim Leader of The Climate Trust Named

PORTLAND, Ore. – The Climate Trust, a nationally recognized innovator and quality leader in the carbon market, today announced the appointment of green building and energy efficiency professional Terry Miller to guide The Climate Trust’s operations until a permanent executive is hired. During his time at Conservation Services Group, Terry led the Energy Trust of Oregon’s Existing Homes program.

Miller will work in The Climate Trust’s office in Portland – his service began on Monday, Feb. 11. Miller brings more than 10 years of green industry experience to his new role at The Trust; utilizing his management expertise to help execute the organization’s strategic plan for 2013 and retain The Trust’s position as an industry leader.

“We welcome Terry to his new executive role,” said Board Vice Chair, Sean Penrith. “Terry’s leadership style is based on teamwork and collaboration. We’re honored that he has agreed to serve as interim Executive Director during this leadership transition period.”

“Our successful leadership team at The Climate Trust is made up of a diverse group of talented professionals, and I am fortunate to now take part in the critical works of this mission-driven organization” said Miller. “I’ve seen the green industry evolve throughout my career, and I’m pleased to have the opportunity to take it to even greater heights on behalf of The Climate Trust.”

Miller is a graduate of Yale’s School of Forestry and Environmental Studies with a Masters of Environmental Management. He also has a diversity of experience in government, private and non-profit organizations.

Laura Beane, The Climate Trust’s Board Chair, is leading the search for a permanent Executive Director and has high hopes for an accelerated appointment.
